GOV. W. E. CLARK

Arrives from Alaska With Mrs. Clark After Twelve Days' Trip—Discusses Most Important Issues in New Territory.

(Special to The Bulletin.) Gov. Walter E. Clark and wife of Alaska arrived in Willimantic Wednesday at 11:45 and were met at the station by relatives and Mayor D. P. Dunn, who greeted them heartily. Governor and Mrs. Clark were driven to Chaplin in the former's automobile by Raymond Jones, a cousin of the governor. There a short visit will be made with Mrs. Emily J. Ross, mother of the governor, before the latter proceeds to Washington, D. C., tonight or Friday morning to lay matters of state before congress.

Governor Clark reported a very pleasant trip home from Alaska, and said that while they were in Buffalo, N. Y., Tuesday evening it had seemed colder to them than it had in the Alaskan territory all winter. Speaking of the climate there, he said that the temperature had only fallen to 7 degrees below zero last night. This winter, and that most of the time it had not been nearly as cold as that.

Juneau, the Alaskan capital, has a population of some 1,600 and supports two daily papers. The people there are all busy, wear good clothes and there are few, if any, really needy people, although none are actually getting rich fast, as seems to be the impression in the states. Mining and fishing are two of the principal industries and the Treadwell mines on the island of Douglas, only a short distance from Juneau, as if one were going across the ferry from New York to Jersey, employ 1,800 men.

Governor Clark was questioned relative to the new government bill for

Alaska, that embodies a legislative commission to be appointed by the president, comprising eleven members, two from each of the four judicial districts, called councillors, the governor, attorney general, which at present is an officer in perspective only, and the commissioner of the interior and mines; to be presided over by the governor, with power of veto, etc., and Governor Clark did not care to make any comment, as the bill is pending in congress.

Three Important Issues.

He said that there were three matters of vital moment to Alaska and its development that he proposed to take up with congress at this time, the present game laws, the Alaska narrative territory for more lighthouses and the enactment of laws whereby the enormous industry of the fisheries may be better and more properly handled to insure their best development.

New Game Laws Needed.

Governor Clark said that the game proposition was a big one and that he intended to urge a change in the existing game laws so that they would be even more strict than those now in force. He said that the game laws of Alaska today are the most liberal in the world, and that he intended to make new regulations under the existing game laws so that they would be even more strict than those now in force. He said that the game laws of Alaska today are the most liberal in the world, and that he intended to make new regulations under the existing game laws so that they would be even more strict than those now in force.

Additional Lighthouses Required.

One of the most important questions confronting Alaska today is the insufficiency of lighthouses and aids to navigation along the coast. The transportation facilities for Alaska are there are a number of steamers plying back and forth along the coast, but they are afforded comparatively little protection and oftentimes have to lose considerable time waiting for daylight or a change of tide before advancing, and the course is not clearly defined, especially along the coast where it is winding. At the present time the insurance is something like 10 or 12 per cent, and consequently freight rates are very high. With the establishment of more lighthouses delays in travel would not be factors to be contended with and the item of insurance would be lowered to 5 or 6 per cent, and as a result the freight tariffs would also be lowered a great deal so that almost immeasurable benefit would accrue to the people of Alaska and work toward the general steady and uniform development. Governor Clark said that he had taken trips this winter in the revenue cutter to personally ascertain the specific needs in this all important question.

He said: "You see, Southeast Alaska is an inland sea and the Wrangell Straits are very narrow and tortuous and it makes navigation most treacherous because of a lack of lighthouses. We have a steamer will lose a number of hours lying to waiting for a tide or daylight before daring to proceed. It is these steamers that bring in the necessities of life, those that are not raised in Alaska, and when the lighthouse system has been perfected and expanded so as to make navigation less perilous the cost of living in Alaska will be very materially lessened."

The Fishing Industry.

"The third proposition that I will bring to the attention of the department personally is the conservation and proper exploitation of the fisheries," said the governor. "It is an enormous industry, the salmon product alone amounts to $10,000,000 annually at the present time, and it is but in its infancy, so to speak. Halibut, cod and herring are also very plentiful. It is safe to say that the fisheries of Alaska are the best in the world, and it is fresh as it is delivered by express there as well as by the steamer. The New England Fisheries company, I want the government to make a minute coast survey, using the steamer Albatross, which has done considerable work of this character, and perform the work as carefully and thoroughly as possible."

Carpenters Offered $275 - Want

The Builders, Contractors and Dealers

association of Willimantic has declined to accept the proposition offered them last week by Local 285,

Carpenters and Joiners of America,

seeking $27 1-2 per day, but will make good its offer of $275 for a minimum wage for eight hours' work out-

side and nine hours' work in the shop,

commencing at 10 o'clock. The union

takes this stand after a careful consideration of the matter and feels that business does not warrant a further

advance at the present time, the matter

was unsettled. The previous minimum wage was $250 per day, and the carpenters now have the minimum wage scale boosted for them to $275. The Middle Town Defeated.

Score 18 to 14 in Basketball Contest

on Wednesday Afternoon.

The largest matinee crowd of the year witnessed on the best and cleanest games of basketball Wednesday that has been played in this city during the present season. There was more of the old professional league, and enthusiasm and the under-clasmen of Windham high split the air with the full repertoire of well and sound play.

Middletown high, the only high school team that has defeated the local five this season, was the opponent, and proved most worthy one. Her players were regular wizards at shooting baskets from all sorts of difficult angles and previous to the contest, a member of the game most sanguine were forced to admit to themselves that "it looks mighty dubious for Windham."

The game started with a rush and the going was very fast for a few moments, neither side being able to obtain the advantage. Such covering and blocking have not before been seen on the local floor since the days of the old professional league. Midtown finally got the ball and almost before anyone was aware of it, Wells had called with a fine shot. He soon added another, and with a third shot, Richmond scored soon after on a pretty shot, and the rosters whooped up, and the game was on.

Wells, the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday heaved the leather into the steel circle and the score was tied. Salmonson scored from a difficult shot and Leonard was the next local to score. The pace began to tell on Middletown, but she forced ahead again with Pike scoring. Richmond tied up the score soon after with another clean basket, but the half went to Middletown, as Salmonson talked to the best.

Then Windham set a faster pace. Burns tied the score at 14 all with a clever shot after a try for a goal and again by tapping the ball into the basket on the rebound. Windham immediately thereafter took the lead as the result of a clever team pass. It is then that the game was decided. Burns, who tossed the basket. The wind up came with another lightning basket by Burns, making the final score 18 to 14 in favor of Windham.

The line up and summary:

Windham: High - Vanderman 15,

Burns 15, Richmond 15, Harrington 15,

Leonard 15.

Middletown: High-Reynolds 15,

Trevitt 15, Salmonson 15, Pike 15,

Wells 15.

Celebrating the Victory.

The Windham rosters celebrated

down the street singing and cheering.

Three tries missed, except Middletown, a game between these teams on a neutral floor would be well worth watching. Windham did not have her strongest line up in, as Jordan could not play because of a sprained ankle

received in the Bulkeley game at New London. Harrington, however, played

a fine guarding game, but could not locate the basket.

Final Account Accepted.

The hearing on the final account of the estate of Mrs. A. Charter of Putnam was held Wednesday at 10 a. m.

in the office of Referee Samuel H.

A. J. Bowen. Attorney Samuel H.
